Component Mission

The National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) leads our nation's effort to combat terrorism at home and abroad by analyzing the threat, sharing that information with our partners, and integrating all instruments of national power to ensure unity of effort. The Center serves as the primary organization in the United States Government (USG) for analyzing and integrating all intelligence possessed or acquired by the USG pertaining to terrorism and counterterrorism, and its Director serves as the Counterterrorism Mission Manager. NCTC also serves as the central and shared knowledge bank on known and suspected terrorists and international terrorist groups, as well as their goals, strategies, capabilities, and networks of contacts and support. In addition, NCTC conducts strategic operational planning for counterterrorism activities, coordinating and integrating the efforts of departments and agencies across the Federal Government.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs)

- The Levant Egypt Branch is a component of the National Counterterrorism Center's Directorate of Intelligence that produces all-source terrorism-related analysis for high-level policymakers on Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan, and Israel. Major Duties and Responsibilities:
- Provide expert guidance and leadership in the production of well-crafted, sophisticated, analytic finished intelligence products on sometimes controversial or particularly difficult issues in support of United States (US) foreign policy and national security objectives; review final analytic products, written and oral, for clarity, organization, accuracy, and logic; effectively explain highly complex concepts to non-expert customers and tailor products to correspond to customer needs.
- Lead and direct team in substantive analysis; plan, coordinate, and oversee work in a manner consistent with fulfilling organizational directives and accomplishing mission goals.
- Lead and direct team in the gathering of political, social, cultural, economic, military, scientific, and historical information in support of US interests and policy objectives; guide teams in the development and identification of highly relevant information from internal and external sources to meet client needs.
- Develop and maintain working relationships with senior NCTC officials and, as necessary, principals throughout the intelligence and policy communities; identify issues and developments with internal and external peers, communicating regularly to exchange subject information.
- Develop the substantive analytic and leadership skills of subordinate employees, and contribute to the broader corporate mission of the organization.
- Evaluate and develop analysts; serve as a substantive supervisory and analytic resource; provide substantive feedback to include career development counseling and skills development.
